

Edward R. Colby <ed.colby... Jun 18, 2019, 7:01 AM to me ▼

Every student who applies for accommodations must provide documentation of their disability from a qualified professional diagnostician. The documentation is typically provided to ACT by school officials (unless the student does not attend a regular school, of course). Our Policy for Accommodations Documentation (<https://www.act.org/content/dam/act/unsecured/documents/6368-ACT-Policy-for-Documentation-Web.pdf>) lays out exactly what is needed for each particular diagnosis.

Each application for accommodations is reviewed individually by ACT, and a determination is made in each case based on the information provided. If additional documentation/information is needed, ACT accommodations staff will work with the school or student to help them through the process.

I hope this helps. If you have additional questions, please just let me know.